

ABSTRACT

Methods and systems for alleviating the problems of toxic discharge of aldehydes present in waste streams are disclosed. The methods relate to forming neutralized aldehydes by treating aldehydes with basic compounds. The use of bases offers a simple, effective and inexpensive solution for treatment of toxic aldehydes prior to disposal into the environment.